REPARATIONS DISCUSSED BY ALLIED CONFERENCE

Estimated Germany Has Paid Nine Thousand Million Marks

DEBT TO FRANCE

Estimate Of Amount Due Made In Statement Of Finance Minister

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Jan. 26.—According to the afternoon communique, the Allied Conference decided to grant recognition to Esthonia and Lettonia. The question of recognising Lithuania was viewed with sympathy, but decision was deferred, pending settlement of the Vilna question by the League of Nations. The Conference entirely favored the legal recognition of Georgia if the latter proffers a request for it.

The Conference will reach a decision on the report of the military experts tomorrow.

Paris, Jan. 26.—The reparations question, which is the piece de resistance before the Allied Conference, comes up today.

9,000,000,000 PAID

It is estimated that Germany has already paid the Allies over nine thousand million gold marks, but the Allied advances to Germany, the cost of the armies of occupation and the value of property (2,500,000,000 gold marks) in the districts liberated from Germany must be deducted from this. Furthermore, the paradoxical situation exists of the Allies having advanced 648,000,000 gold marks to Germany.

Certain experts favor a simple solution of the financial difficulties of Austria by handing the administration of her finances over to the League of Nations.

Berlin, Jan. 26.—A communique with regard to reparations indicates that Germany agrees with the Allied scheme for the payment of five yearly instalments, and desires that discussions for settling the total of her debt be held as soon as possible instead of at the expiry of five years.

Paris, Jan. 26.—A statement made by M. Doumer, Minister of Finance, today, dealt principally with Germany's debt to France. He pointed out that the French Budget for 1922 provides 16,000,000,000 francs for the reconstruction of the devastated regions and payment of war pensions, which must be recovered, from Germany in order to restore the financial equilibrium.

Mr. Lloyd George appeared greatly interested in the statement and frequently question M. Doumer.

LLOYD GEORGE QUESTIONS

M. Doumer's statement, which was read before the Inter-Allied Conference, in the course of a discussion of the preliminaries of the reparations question, placed the reparations due the Allies from Germany at 212,000,000,000 gold marks, excluding interest and the payments already made. France, he said, required 110,000,000,000 of this Mr. Lloyd George queried the figures given several points and requested M. Doumer to furnish supplementary documents tomorrow.

In the meantime the British delegates are apparently adhering to the figures decided upon at the Boulogne Conference. They are supported in this connection, as well as regarding immediate determination of the total indemnity, by Belgium. France, however, appears willing to accept the

CHARGES AGAINST 17 ARRESTED IN BOMBAY DROPPED

(Reuter's Service)

Bombay, Jan. 26.—An unexpected denouement occurred when the seventeen prisoners, arrested in connection with disturbances which followed the killing of two pigeons by some European boys, were brought up in Police Court. The Commissioner of Police instructed that the case be withdrawn on the ground of previous good relations between the police and the community to which the majority of those arrested, who are Hindu Banians, belonged. The Magistrate, in dismissing the case, paid tribute to the Commissioner's foresight and tact.

R.V.F. DIRECTOR IS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF LIBEL

Captain Lukhmanoff, To Appear In Mixed Court This Morning

Captain D. A. Lukhmanoff, managing director of the Vladivostok Administration of the Russian Volunteer Fleet who is in Shanghai endeavoring to smooth out the difficulties troubling the line here, was arrested early last evening on a Mixed Court warrant charging libel. The alleged libelous matter appeared in a local Russian newspaper of January 23 and the complaint is made by one Leonid Fedorovitch Kompanion. The warrant was signed by American Assessor Tenney.

Captain Lukhmanoff was released on his own recognisance shortly after the warrant was served, after his attorneys, Mr. Sterling Fessenden and Major C. P. Holcomb, had called upon Assessor Tenney and visited the Central Police Station.

The case will come up for hearing before Assessor Blackburn in the Mixed Court this morning.

HOLLAND ORDERS TWELVE ENGINES FOR SUBMARINES

Costs In Britain Depend On Policy, Says Field Marshal

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 26.—Field Marshal Sir William Robertson, in a speech in the city, said it was useless attempting to tinker with the question of the cost of the Imperial Services until Great Britain's world policy had been settled, when experts would say what force would be required. A standard policy and a comprehensive view of the whole question of Imperial defences were essential stages to any intelligent reduction of expenditure as regarded Imperial forces.

German Industries Expand; French Imports Show Loss; British Trade Is Curtailed

Flood Of Capital Poured Into Teuton Companies; Commercial Report Is Issued In Paris; English Dealers Overstocked

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 26.—The French newspapers quote the German financial newspaper Die Bank for some very illuminating facts regarding the flow of German capital during the past year.

The German organ shows that new capital invested in German companies during the first eleven months of 1920 amounted to no less than 7,275,000,000 marks, the corresponding figure for 1919 being barely over 1,000,000,000 marks.

The increase of capital of existing companies amounted to six and a half thousand million marks in the first eleven months of 1920, as compared with only three hundred millions in 1919.

New companies were capitalised during the period under review to the extent of one and a half thousand million marks as against 773 millions in the previous year.

FLOW OF CAPITAL

The following figures, culled from Die Bank, indicate the direction of this great flow of new capital:

	marks.
The metal industry attracted	1,364,000,000
The mining industry attracted	771,000,000
The electrical industry attracted	663,000,000
The chemical industry attracted	585,000,000
Industries connected with Food Supplies attracted	511,000,000
The banks attracted	1,067,000,000

The comment of the French newspapers may be summarised in this one question: "Has Germany the right to play the professional beggar and to plead economic and financial distress as just cause for refusing to pay her debts?"

FRENCH IMPORTS DROP

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 26.—French imports for 1920 showed a net decrease of nearly 400,000,000 francs, due to reductions in imports of foodstuffs and manufactured articles, whereas imports of raw materials for French industries increased.

BALANCE IMPROVED

Paris, Jan. 26.—French revenue returns for 1920, issued today, show that the country's trade balance has been improved by ten and three-quarter thousand million francs, but a deficit of thirteen thousand millions remains, representing the excess of imports over exports.

SENATORS WOULD PUBLISH RECORD OF YAP AFFAIR

U. S. Foreign Relations Committee Exceedingly Dissatisfied With Japan

URGE STRONG MEASURES

State Department Contends America Must Assent To Disposal

The following message to the Japan Advertiser, Tokio, has been picked up:

(U. S. Naval Radio through Reuter)

Washington, Jan. 26.—The Acting Secretary of State, Mr. Davis, described the Pacific cable situation to the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee today, and left his hearers exceedingly dissatisfied with Japanese conduct in the matter. Indeed, an informal suggestion was made after the hearing that the entire records of the Yap affair should be published to the world, in order to show that the United States had acted in good faith and had failed to legalise their right merely owing to the absence of a documentary agreement.

WANT STRONG MEASURES

Some Senators wish the Government to adopt strong measures.

Mr. Davis produced correspondence with Great Britain showing the latter's disposition to regard Japan's claim to exclusive control of the Yap cables as valid since there was no written evidence to prove that the United States had served notice to the Peace Conference that they reserved the right of protest. It was also brought out that Japan had introduced the matter before the League of Nations at Geneva and that the League had confirmed the Japanese claim.

DISPOSAL NEEDS U.S. ASSENT

The State Deepartment contends that since the German islands in the Pacific were ceded to the Allied and Associated Powers by the Treaty of Versailles, they cannot be disposed of without the consent of the United States, as one of the Associated Powers.

From the evidence produced, it appears that Japan stands basically allied to the agreement of 1915, defining the conditions of her entry into the war, and ceding her the German islands in the Pacific just North of the equator.

WHANGPOO BOARD ASKS POWERS TO NAME ENGINEER

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Jan. 27.—The Whangpoo Conservancy has decided to request the countries which are members of the Consultative Board—viz., Great Britain, America, France, Japan and the Netherlands—to nominate a consulting engineer, who is a specialist in harbor and river work, to attend a conference at Shanghai on October 15 on the question of developing the port of Shanghai, (1) on the basis of the approaches and draught limit remaining as at present, and (2) for the probable maximum draught of Pacific ships.

CHINESE HOSPITAL BOY ACCOMPANIES LEEDS TO STATES

When seventeen-year-old William B. Leeds, Jr., formerly "the richest baby in the world," leaves here on the Venezuela Saturday he will take with him a Chinese hospital orderly, a nurse and a valet. Leeds has been undergoing treatment here for an infected arm. The infection was received while he was tiger hunting in Sumatra, inflammation following a scratch and an insect bite and spreading so that it has infected the bone of his right arm.

In addition to the Chinese hospital orderly, the nurse, Miss Freda Shultz, and a valet, his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Green, and a governess, will leave with young Leeds on Saturday.

Leeds goes direct to New York where he will submit to an operation by one of the city's foremost surgeons.

FURBUSH SHOULD HAVE HAD JURY, NOW CONTENDED

Question Raised In Motion And Brief Asking New Trial Of Charge

MORE ATTORNEYS APPEAR

Revision Of Decision Given By U.S. Supreme Court Being Sought

Following filing of a motion for re-trial of the charge of murder against Henry B. Furbush, who was found guilty of killing Richard Hazelton and was sentenced to prison for life, a brief supplementing this motion is to be filed in the United States Court for China today by Fleming, Davies and Bryan, who have been retained in the case in addition to Mr. M. L. Heen and Mr. L. W. Hartigan, who conducted the defense through the trial.

In this brief the question of trial without jury in the United States Court for China is to be raised, although a United States Supreme Court decision on this question is on record.

CONTENTION RAISED

The contention raised in the motion for new trial and in the brief is that Furbush was tried by the court sitting without a jury and was convicted by Judge Lobingier, who tried and decided both the facts and the law of the case. The stand is taken that this is contrary to the laws and constitution of the United States and therefore the conviction is invalid.

In the United States Supreme Court decision on the trial without jury question it is held that the constitutional guarantee of trial by jury applies only within the borders of the United States and for this reason criminal trials of Americans abroad must be held without jury. It is the evident purpose of the new defense in the Furbush case to obtain a revision of this decision and this may mean that the case will be taken through the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth District in California up to the United States Supreme Court.

ASKS NEW TRIAL

The motion for the new trial was filed yesterday by Mr. Heen. In addition to the jury question raised, the motion contends that the judgment of conviction and sentence was passed contrary to law and contrary to the evidence in the case which, it is held, was insufficient to justify the judgment and conviction. It is contended also that numerous errors of law occurred in the course of the trial to which exception was taken by the defense.

Furbush is still being held prisoner in the American jail, as means to transport him to Manila have not yet presented themselves. It was not known yesterday how soon the prisoner would be sent to Bilibid.

SIMS GIVES VIEWS ON SYMPATHISERS WITH SINN FEIN

Says It Is Inconceivable Americans Should Support Wartime Enemies

(Reuter's Service)

Boston, Jan. 26.—Admiral Sims, in addressing a "loyal coalition" mass-meeting, declared it was inconceivable how the American Irish could support the Sinn Feiners who were implacable enemies of America in wartime. Sinn Fein activities, he said, had necessitated the diversion of vessels from convoying troopships and merchantmen, with the result that many Americans were drowned. If Anglo-American difficulties were approached in a friendly spirit, there need not be any misunderstanding.

AMBUSCADE JAILS

London, Jan. 26.—General Sir Edward Strickland's view that ambushes are no longer succeeding is confirmed by a fiasco which followed an attack on a police lorry near the Law Courts in Dublin last night. Bombs were thrown and fell behind the car, while a fusilade fired by a group at the quayside was without effect.

Another police lorry across the river intervened, firing volleys on the fleeing civilians, of whom a number who were apparently dead or badly wounded were carried into the labyrinth of courts and lanes, adjoining the quay, men with revolvers keeping off the spectators who tried to follow. Both lorries returned to the depot scatheless.

ATTACK ON LIEUT. LANGDON UNWARRANTED, IS FINDING; OI ORDERS CARE IN FUTURE

Opinion In Vladivostok That Japan Will Bow To All U.S. Demands Including That Which Says Americans Must Not Be Challenged

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 26.—The Japanese reply to the Government's note in connection with the shooting of Lieut. Langdon at Vladivostok promises a thorough investigation.

Admiral Gleaves has informed the Navy Department that the American court of inquiry at Vladivostok decided that Lieut. Langdon was the victim of an unwarranted attack by a Japanese Sentry, and that General Oi had warned his staff officers to instruct sentries to exercise more caution in future.

(China Press Correspondence)

Vladivostok, January 23.—Japan will accede to every demand made by the United States as the result of the killing of Lieutenant Warren H. Langdon by a Japanese soldier on the morning of January 9, it is believed here. The chief of these is the ultimatum that the Japanese must not challenge Americans and the opinion is freely expressed that the Japanese will accede.

The coming here of the commander in chief of the Asiatic Fleet, Admiral Albert Gleaves, has had a salutary effect. His prompt action in coming from Manila to conduct a thorough investigation of what general opinion here concedes to be a ruthless murder, has raised American prestige and has made the Japanese understand that the action of the so-called "ignorant sentry" was not to be treated lightly by American naval officials.

The Russians are disappointed that there is not to be war. They believe that Japan is provoking the United States and thought that the murder of Langdon would be followed by a declaration of war. But they are pleased with the stand taken by the Americans and join with the foreign population in the belief that Japan has learned a lesson.

INDIGNANT AGAINST JAPS

Indignation against the Japanese is at its height here. And their attitude since the arrival of the American commander-in-chief has been one of absolute submission. From General Oi down, they have been insistent with apologies and expressions of regret and this attitude leads to the belief here that every American demand will be met and the Japanese placed on an entirely different basis in Vladivostok.

This morning the coffin containing Lieutenant Langdon's body was transferred from the Albany to the New Orleans, which will take it to Shanghai. The coffin was covered with beautiful flowers—most of them sent by Japanese.

It was truly an impressive sight to see the crews of both men of war standing at attention as the body was taken aboard the New Orleans. But a closer look at the faces of these American officers and sailors revealed that they were mad—fighting mad.

HIT JAPANESE TWICE

For Lieutenant Langdon was one of the most popular Americans here and he died fighting. Shot in the back he fired twice at his assailant and both shots hit the Japanese. A Japanese officer told your correspondent yesterday that a cartridge belt saved the life of the sentry.

The wounded American officer made his way from where he was shot on Peter the Great Street over 600 yards to his ship, the Albany. He saluted the sentry. He then went aboard and told his story.

Since Langdon was shot none of the Albany crew has been allowed ashore. When the New Orleans arrived the same orders were evidently issued for only officers have been seen ashore. As is the usual custom they have been carrying pistols.

The result of the Court of Inquiry will not be given out here, it is believed and Americans are of the opinion that the findings will be sent out from Washington as Admiral Gleaves apparently is making his report direct to the Capital.

Without question America has been completely successful in her parleys with Japan over the Langdon affair. Japan would agree to anything asked by the United States. These are the opinions freely expressed here.

NEW ORLEANS IN SHANGHAI

The U.S.S. New Orleans arrived here at noon yesterday from Vladivostok and is anchored off the Nantao Bund. The cruiser brought Lieutenant Langdon's body and it will later be sent to the United States for burial, probably on an American merchant ship. Possibly the body will be

GERMAN MINISTER STATES POSITION OF WAR CRIMINALS

Says Authorities Have Done Everything Possible; Few Cases Disposed Of

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Jan. 26.—The position with regard to German war criminals was explained by the Minister of Justice to the Reichstag today, in a statement which evoked uproarious cries of dissent from the Left when he concluded. He declared that the German authorities had done everything to satisfy the demands of justice, but could not convict anyone whose guilt was not clearly proven.

The Minister said that there were three categories of war criminals; firstly, those indicted by the Imperial Court, and not in connection with the Allies' demand for the surrender of war criminals; secondly, the Entente's list of 900 presented at the beginning of 1920, and thirdly, forty-five cases in which judgment had been left to the Imperial Court by the foreign States.

The cases in the last category had been thoroughly examined; those submitted by Italy, Serbia and Rumania were unfinished; those by Belgium and France partially disposed of; and one case submitted by England had recently been settled, whereupon the British prosecutor had said that the list of cases to be submitted, had not, by any means, been exhausted.

The British, French and Belgian Governments had been requested to permit a representative of the Imperial Prosecutor to go to London, Paris and Brussels to explain the difficulties of prosecution. The permission of Britain had been received, and a delegate was going to London next week.

SIXTEEN DEAD AS TRAINS SMASH ON ENGLISH LINE

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 26.—Ten persons were killed and many injured in a head-on collision which occurred between the Aberystwyth and Manchester Express and the local train from Aberystwyth to Whitchurch on the Cambrian Railway today. The dead include three railwaymen and seven passengers, one of the latter being Lord Herbert Vane-Tempest, uncle of the Marquis of Londonderry, who succumbed to his injuries in Newton Infirmary.

The accident occurred between Newton and Abermule at a point where a curve in the line prevented the trains from seeing each other in time to avert it. The express was descending a steep gradient on the single line when it crashed with fearful impact into the local train, with which it ought to have crossed at Abermule station. The engine of the express was piled on top of the slow train, and it suffered more seriously than the latter. The first two corridor carriages came off worst, several of their occupants being fatally injured.

The driver and stoker of the slow train were killed, but its passengers all escaped with bruises.

The number of persons injured has not yet been ascertained.

London, Jan. 27.—The number of casualties resulting from the Abermule train wreck is now given as sixteen dead and fourteen injured.

COLBY RETURNS

(Reuter's Service)

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 26.—The Secretary of State, Mr. Colby, has returned from South America.

sent to Manila and taken to San Francisco on a United States Army transport.

Admiral Gleaves did not return to Shanghai. The commander in chief of the Asiatic Fleet boarded the Destroyer Elliott yesterday morning off The Saddles and goes on to Manila where he will prepare to turn over his command to Rear Admiral Joseph Strauss, his successor, who arrives in Shanghai Sunday morning on the Empress of Russia.

Admiral Strauss will go on the Russia to Manila, assume command of the Station and then Admiral Gleaves will go to Hongkong on the Elliott. Here he will catch the Empress of Russia going to Vancouver. The Empress sails from Shanghai on Febraury 12.

JAPAN ADVERTISER STORY OF MURDER

Lieutenant Warren H. Langdon, of the U.S.S. Albany, who was shot by a Japanese sentry in Vladivostok while passing the Japanese headquarters in Peter the Great Street, was at the time returning from a Christmas party (old style calendar) which he had been attending in the home of some Russian friends. This information, together with other important details which have not hitherto been published, reached The Japan Advertiser from a well-informed correspondent in Vladivostok. According to this correspondent, whose reliability can be vouched for, the facts differ considerably from the version which has been made known through Japanese channels.

The Advertiser's correspondent confirms what has already been stated regarding the habits and character of the dead officer. Lieutenant Langdon was a consistent abstainer and is believed to have been an abstainer all his life. He was a man of genial disposition and even temper, very unlikely to lose his temper or act upon impulse. Having been stationed in Vladivostok for over a year he was thoroughly conversant with the ways of the place and "knew his way about." No one who knew him would believe without the clearest evidence that he acted provocatively, and he was a man who certainly understood his duty when challenged by a sentry.

DOESN'T CONFIRM SUICIDE

On January 8, two nights after the Orthodox Church's Christmas, Lieutenant Langdon went to a Christmas party at the house of some Russian friends, one of whom was a lady who subsequently stated that she had been engaged to him. Whether this was so or not is unknown to The Advertiser's informant. He mentions, without vouching for the truth of the story, a report current in Vladivostok that the lady committed suicide in despair when she heard that Lieutenant Langdon had been killed.

Russian festivities are conducted without much regard for the flight of time and there is nothing in the least uncommon in a Christmas party breaking up at 4 o'clock in the morning; in fact that may be called an early hour for Russian gatherings. Lieutenant Langdon started to walk back to his ship. He had an electric torch, which is a necessity in walking at night in those indescribably dilapidated streets where great holes alternate with patches of ice. Being in uniform he had his revolver which is a part of the uniform. As a matter of fact everybody who has to be about in Vladivostok after dark, whether soldier or civilian, carries a revolver. This is not a new custom. Vladivostok has always been a town of evil repute by night. For the last year or two the presence of criminals from all parts of Russian and of a large population driven desperate by want has made the revolver indispensable.

CROSSED TO AVOID SENTRY

When he reached the Japanese headquarters in Peter the Great Street where sentries are always posted Lieutenant Langdon crossed the street to the opposite side from the buildings occupied by the Japanese, and his friends have no doubt that he did so in order to avoid causing the slightest suspicion in the sentry's mind. Possibly the sentry may have seen Langdon using his torch at a bad part of the road; at all events for some reason he crossed the street from his post and challenged the American with the usual question "Americanski?" Lieutenant Langdon answered "Da, Da," "Yes, Yes," and walked on. He had gone only a few steps when the sentry fired, hitting him in the back and inflicting the wound from which he died 30 hours later.

SHOP TWICE AT THE SENTRY

Langdon turned and discharged ed his revolver twice at the sentry and then made the best of his way to the ship. The revolver was found by the Japanese at the place where Langdon was shot; it had evidently fallen from his hand in the weakness and shock caused by his mortal wound.

The correspondent adds that the incident has caused a most painful sensation among all foreign residents excepting the Japanese. "The presence of Japanese military forces in the city was an accepted fact, but if Japanese soldiers are to go out of their way to interfere with, and shoot, foreigners for no apparent reason, excetly as if this Russian city were a Japanese camp in wartime, the normal difficulties of the position will be intensified and it is impossible to say what will happen. The one thing certain is that the Japanese have made themselves more unpopular than ever."

NEW YORK TIMES COMMENT

New York, January 19.—The New York Times, commenting this morning on the shooting of Lieutenant Langdon in Vladivostok, says that the Japanese officials in expressing condolences have behaved in an "exemplary manner," but that the American officer being killed on Russian soil, where he had the same rights to come and go as any Japanese soldier, sailor or civilian, constitutes a grave offence and punishment should be adequate.

Until such punishment is inflicted, the Japanese Government "will not have made amends," says the Times.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICE

Vladivostok, Jan. 18.—Impressive funeral ceremonies were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon, both religious and military, over the remains of the late Lieutenant Langdon, of the U. S. S. Albany. All the foreign and Russian military and civil representatives attended the services, General Oi with his staff being among the many present.

The religious services were held in the hall of the Y. M. C. A., which is close to where the Albany is docked, the coffin lying under masses of wreathes. Following these services the coffin was returned alongside the Albany, on a gun carriage, where a salute was fired. Then a large American flag was lowered from the deck of the cruiser, shutting off the public view.

Bill Of Exchange Case To Be Heard On Next Thursday

Action Brought By Kim Kee Against N. S. Moses And Co. Will Be Tried

The hearing of the case brought by Kim Kee against N. S. Moses and Co., in which judgment was asked for Tls. 7,371 on a bill of exchange, will take place on next Thursday in the British Supreme Court. The Court ruled yesterday, it being the adjourned return day, that there had been sufficient matter alleged in the defendants affidavit to have the case tried before him instead of giving summary judgment.

Mr. Lawrence Kentwell represented the defendants. He read an affidavit sworn to by the manager of the defendant's firm, Harry Goldberg, in which it was stated that defendants had been induced to accept the bill without consideration, that there had been a verbal agreement not to hold them liable in any event, and that plaintiffs at all times had had entire control of the disposal of the cargo in question.

Mr. Kentwell added that plaintiffs made the negotiations to sell the consignment, which was of rubber. Apparently they were unable to do so at a profitable rate and it was finally sold at a tremendous sacrifice. Defendants merely accepted the bill by an arrangement for the accommodation of the drawer, the understanding being that plaintiffs would not hold defendants responsible and that they would look to the drawer for payment.

Mr. J. O. Anderson was counsel for the plaintiffs. He read an affidavit sworn to by the manager of plaintiff firm in which it was stated that defendants were justly indebted to plaintiffs in the amount claimed, that the bill of exchange when presented had been dishonored, and that he verily believed there was no defense to the action. $500 costs were also asked.

Fishermen Leaving Newfoundland As Low Prices Come

(Reuter's Service)

St. Johns, Newfoundland (By mail).—Several thousand fishermen have left Newfoundland this year, owing to the comparative failure of the colony's fisheries and the low price received for the product. They have chiefly gone to Canada and the United States.

The decline in prices of cod oil, lobsters, salmon and other subsidiary products has been so great that the fisherman will not receive more than half the amount which they obtained last year.

Another factor tending to emigration is the curtainment in the iron mines, where forces of 3,000 have been reduced by one-half. Although the pulp and paper mills are making an exceptionally large cut of wood, they cannot absorb all the men seeking work from them this winter.

Will Recommend American Red Cross For The Nobel Prize

(Reuter's Service)

Helsingfors, Jan. 26.—The Finnish Government has unanimously decided to recommend to the Nobel Committee that it award the Peace Prize to the American Red Cross, on the ground that its blessed activities materially relieved suffering in wartime, served the purpose of humanity and promoted the mutual solidarity of nations.

Mixed Court Jottings

A woman and fourteen men were seized in a raid made on an opium den at 497 Foochow Road by Detective Sergeant Knight, Detective Douglas and a squad of Chinese Wednesday night. One of the three accused who were found guilty of running the establishment was sentenced to a month's imprisonment and the other two were given their choice of paying fines of $20 each or going to jail for three weeks. Seven of the patrons appeared and were fined $3 each while the other five, failing to appear, forfeited their bail of $20 each.

A man and a woman found guilty of forging betrothal papers for a young girl whom the latter had brought to Shanghai from Dzungzoh were sentenced to three months' imprisonment each yesterday. They had obtained $48 by making the betrothal.

The two Chinese who were charged last week with forgery of postage stamps were again in court yesterday when the case was remanded for another week. Mr. J. G. Priestwood appeared to prosecute on behalf of the Postal Commissioner and Messrs. R. S. Haskell and P. M. Linebarger appeared for the defendants.

SHIP CONFERENCE AGREED ON POINT OF SHORTER HOURS

Owners And Seamen In Accord As International Meeting Ends

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Brussels, Jan. 26.—The International Shipping Conference has come to an end after a third and last meeting this morning.

The discussions having clearly shown that shipowners and seamen were agreed on the principle of a reduction of working hours, the Conference decided to refer to two special Commissions the question of the technical application of the principle to the various categories of labor concerned.

Before the Conference broke up, both owners and men thanked the Chairman, Mr. Albert Thomas (France), who is director of the International Labor Office of the League of Nations, for the able manner in which he had presided over the proceedings.

LABOR CHIEF SPEAKS

(Reuter's Service)

Brussels, Jan. 26.—The International Shipping Conference which has been in session here, was today addressed by its President, Mr. Albert Thomas, who is director of the International Labor Office of the League of Nations. He emphasised the need of reaching an agreement for all sea workers and declared that Mercantile Marine officers should share in the benefits obtained. He said that if the Conference succeeded in settling the main lines, the maritime labor agreement based upon them should be arranged as soon as possible by all the nations in the form of joint conventions and laws.

STEAMERS FALL 60 PERCENT

London, Jan. 26.—The newly elected president of the Swansea Chamber of Commerce has stated that steamers which were worth £100,000 a year ago were now obtainable for less than £40,000, without there being any buyers. It was quite impossible to build them for such a price.

STEWARDS ON STRIKE

(Reuter's Service)

Melbourne, Jan. 26.—Although as already stated, the marine stewards have called off their strike the shipowners have resolved not to resume their services until the seamen and maritime unions have guaranteed that work shall not be interrupted under the existing agreements.

TONNAGE WITHDRAWN

Washington, Jan. 26.—The Shipping Board has authorised the withdrawal of an additional 122,000 deadweight tons of shipping from Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific ports.

New York, Jan. 26.—Owing to the depression of the shipping trade, the American Steamship Owners' Association has formally requested the sailors' and firemen's unions in Gulf ports to accept a revision of wages and working agreements as early as practicable. It is hoped by this means to meet foreign competition, and to restore many idle ships to service.

Growing Famine Distress Necessitates United Drive For More Funds Next Month

upplies Being Rapidly Depleted While Robber Bands Ravage Country In Ever Increasing Numbers

Latest reports of distress and ath in the famine areas emphasise detail the conditions that prompt- influential Chinese and foreign aders to plan a united famine nd campaign for next month.

These reports, written to the king United Famine Relief Com- ittee, show that the meager sup- ies of food, consisting of husks, bs, and a little grain, are being pidly depleted, that more than irty persons have succumbed to ld and exposure in one district, t that through it all the people e showing a commendable hero- m though retaining the pride hich keeps them from begging ntil life itself is endangered.

Even more startling are the re- orts of further raids. From two five villages are captured and ked every night, the field agents port, and there seems to be no ay to stop the ravages.

Every line of the report sent by owland Cross from Jao Yang sien and by Misses Selma O. oberg and Martha A. Brann from eihsien indicate that the united ive should be intensive and na- onal in scope. They also show at the relief measures are efficient- and conscientiously executed.

REVIEWS SCHOOL WORK

Mr. Cross reviews the work of the hools in his section. Eight of ese are in Jao Yang Tsien, the outhernmost hsien of the seven in e Paotingfu field. Students are rolled from the surrounding area, urteen villages often being re- resented in the student body of 00 pupils. Every few days each udent receives his money allow- nce at the rate of seven coppers a ay and the schools make ad- irable centers for dispensing elief. If rightly handled these ill be of lasting benefit to the dis- icts, Mr. Cross believes. Hair net lasses have also been organised as elief measures. Students who be- me proficient in this work return o the villages and instruct others.

Included in the letter are pages om the diary kept by Mr. Cross. ome of them follow:

"On the way to Paotingfu our rain had to wait while a train of mpty cars passed at full speed but here are two trains of grain on the ricks at Paotingfu and Mr. Baker s on the job."

"On my way to visit the chow hangs outside the city I passed ong lines of women stumping along ver the road, carrying their buckets f food. One woman said she was ying of cold while another, well- ressed and of good family said she ad been to the chow chang because here was no other way. She said he was ashamed that she had to eg.

"On Tuesday I rode the bicycle 90 i to Li Hsien where I spent two ays traveling with Messrs. Woon nd Liu of Yen Ching and Mr. Wei he evangelist. At Liu Chia So we ound a school and hair net class n good condition. There are 700 amilies here and after our meal we went out with the village elder.

DEPRESSING SIGHTS SEEN

"Here I saw more depressing ights than I had ever seen before. Rich and poor are all alike thi ear, one owner of 80 now of land old us. The blind, lame, sick, tarving and women with new-born, combined to make us shudder. The doorways often told the story of uffering within. The village father t one place said between 30 and 40 of his neighbors had frozen to leath. Trees are coming down in he courtyards and even being cut rom the ancestral graves. In the maller places some fuel can be obtained but in the larger centers the fuel problem is vital. We passed through villages where men were eating leaves with a little kaoliang mixed in but I tell you there is cleanness of teeth in these villages.

"One bright spot in Jao Yang Hsien is the home of a former student of the Union Women's College, Peking, She is a widow caring for her aged father and her daughter and is making a brave struggle, at the same time helping and encouraging others.

"Self-denial and heroism is on every hand. A carter who showed effects of starvation asked me for something to eat but when I offered him part of the bread I was eating he asked, 'Do you think I would eat your family food?'"

Mr. Cross spoke of the unselfish labors of all the workers and told how Mr. Hsieh of Yen Ching and Mr. Liu of Shantung Christian University drove a whole day without food or water. On one day the three visited 167 places, finding comfortless homes, suffering of men, women and children, and everywhere empty food vessels.

Industry is at a standstill, Mr. Cross said, and will be until the population is brought through the winter to the tilling season.

"Everywhere the call for help must be sounded and everywhere there must be an immediate and generous response in money and service," Mr. Cross said.

ROBBER BANDS INCREASE

Robber bands have grown until the total now runs into the thousands and conditions are indescribable according to the report of Misses Moberg and Brann. The bands have captured village after village and have come into the South suburb of Wei Hsien. Here they captured one man, passed ropes about him and lifted him over the city wall. Farmers who own land and who have enough food to see them through are being held for ransom and in many cases are forced to sell the land to gain their release. The wealthier families have been moving into the cities for protection.

Conditions are already bad because of crowding and there are frequent scenes of terror. The noise of the shooting and the cries of the terrified people have kept residents of many villages in a nervous condition. The carrying off of farm animals is sure to have serious economic results, the young women say, for if the raids continue there will be no animals to aid in tilling the soil when the Winter passes.

Asks £10,000 For China Famine Aid

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 27.—General Bramwell Booth, of the Salvation Army, has addressed a letter to the Daily Telegraph, appealing for at least £10,000 for the immediate relief of the famine in China.

German Industries Get Plenty Of Capital

try the stocks were valued at between £50,000,000 and £60,000,000 above the usual supplies. This fact was ascribed to the lack of purchasing power abroad.

He foreshadowed that Great Britain would necessarily have to face great and increasing competition, owing to the restricted markets and to the fact that German and other countries were again producing.

He drew attention to the anxiety as regards German competition, owing to the internal exceeding the external value of the mark. As long as this factor obtained, Germany would have a hold on the world's markets. He believed, however, that Great Britain, owing to her unique knowledge and experience, must take the lead in reopening trade in Europe, which was essential to our industrial recovery.

SUGGESTS CONCESSIONS

He suggested that it might pay us to make concessions in respect of the debts owing to us by Allied Governments, provided that our own ability to pay was not prejudiced.

The chairman of the Bank of Liverpool and Martins, Ltd., speaking at the annual meeting, pointed out that a similar demand for credit obtained in England as in the United States. In his opinion the high bank rate had now done its work, and he hoped it would soon be possible to reduce it.

He pointed out that the Government had repaid a considerable amount of its home and foreign debt through internal taxation, which had helped to maintain our credit abroad. He hoped that the Chancellor of the Exchequer would consequently lighten the burden of taxation during this period of commercial depression.

HALT ARRIVING TODAY

Colonels F. V. Holt and Tcheng Hung of the Aeronautical Department are expected to Shanghai today to complete arrangements for the construction of an aerodrome in Shanghai in preparation for the Peking-Shanghai air service.

American Woman's Club Notes

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ezra was opened to receive a party of Literary Department members yesterday afternoon, to view the Oriental art-objects assembled there.

These art-objects are scattered throughout the spacious rooms of the lower floor of the house, and are used as ornaments, rather than as a collection of curios, per se. The most comprehensive group of one kind is of Chinese blue and white porcelains, arranged with particularly good effect against the dark wall upon two lines of shallow shelving, where the color catches and holds the light. As a mural decoration this arrangement appealed forcibly to the homemakers who viewed it.

Examples of other Chinese porcelaines, of bronze, cloisonne, carved lacquer and carved jade were shown to advantage. A number of ivory figures of Japanese carving are vivid with movement and expression. One is of a figure about fifteen inches high, of an old fisherman. He is at the thrilling and somewhat crucial moment, one infers, when his bait is nibbled. The intense and anxious moment is apparent in face, torso and limb—even the fishing pole seems to share in the vibrant and fearful expectancy of the moment.

NOVEL ENAMEL PIECE

Much attention was given to an enamel product, not seen elsewhere, by members of the visiting group—also of Japanese craft. Unlike the usual cloisonne this variety shows no metal foundation, the design being translucent, almost like stained glass. Considerable study was given the various pieces of this enamel, to discover whether the designs are outlined in metal ribbons, but the attempt was unsuccessful. The designs were floral, with the exception of one vase on which sea waves and fishes are skilfully depicted. The effect of light through this translucent medium, is charming.

A vase of Chien Lung carved red lacquer, is notably beautiful of its kind for depth and richness of color. The design is sharply and intricately carved in one of the numerous Chinese diaper-patterns, broken by floral conventional designs. A pair of antique jars of Peking enamel, used as a mantel decoration, received merited admiration—the blues, greens and luminous old copper and henna tones, shading into an exquisite harmony of color, like that of the antique. Mongolian rugs, recently viewed by department members.

MISS SOPHER IS HOSTESS

Because of the indisposition of Mrs. Ezra, her sister Miss Sopher was delegated to act as hostess. The smiling satisfaction of the guests upon departure, was sure testimony to her ability in this capacity. Tea was served. After the guests had sufficiently viewed the art-objects, they responded with pleasure to Miss Sopher's invitation to visit the orchids. Some of the group felt that appreciation for floral displays is more familiar ground, than that of Oriental art. The varied and large collection of orchids was given spontaneous praise. The other flowers blooming in the hot-houses, the premature budding of the camellia bushes out the gardens, and the singing of birds had an air of expectancy for the spring time, due no doubt to be blighted with the buds. The green-houses of Mrs. Ezra are well known in Shanghai for the production of prize winners at the flower shows.

JAP ABSORPTION HITS AUSTRALIA, MURDOCH WRITES

Acquisition Of Marshall And Caroline Islands Upsets British Dominion

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 26.—On the occasion of the 133rd anniversary of Australia's Foundation Day, the Times features an article on the "White Australia" problem by Mr. Keith Murdoch, the well-known writer on Australian affairs, who is the special correspondent in London for a large number of Australian daily newspapers, and, incidentally a close personal friend of Mr. W. M. Hughes', Prime Minister of Australia.

Mr. Murdoch begins thus: "Across the map of the British family of nations has suddenly come a black query mark demanding an answer. It is, in effect, how closely the Empire is going to hang together."

The writer emphasises that Australia felt the Japanese absorption of the Marshall and Caroline Islands acutely, during the war, yet she fought on Britain's side with all her strength.

"Strategically Australia lost the war," proceeds Mr. Murdoch. "The map of the Pacific has changed to her disadvantage, giving a possible foe plentiful harbors within three days' sail of her coast-line. So we come to the frank question whether Britain is as much prepared to maintain Australia's interests in the Pacific as Australia proved herself prepared to defend Britain's in Europe.

"The object of the policy of a 'White Australia' is not mere economic selfishness, but the sacred cause of racial purity. Therefore," declares Mr. Murdoch, "Australia demands that the status quo in the Pacific be guaranteed, if need be, by British guns. Will Britain, if need be, build great ships, will she fight, for a 'White Australia'? Australians believe the answer is 'Yes,' but the question will be raised at the Imperial Conference in June, perhaps not by Australia only. Now that the Dominions are acknowledged as free nations within the Empire, it may well be that a written pact will be asked for."

JAPANESE DEPORTED

Sydney, Jan. 26.—A hundred Japanese from Broome, Western Australia, who were found to have no licences, together with those Japanese who took part in the recent rioting at that place, have been conveyed to Thursday Island, to await deportation by a Japanese vessel.

The question of the various German volunteer formations is not dealt with separately. Germany will be acquainted when the Council gives its decision, either by protocol or Note.

Floors laid in cold weather soon freeze up before they thoroughly "set." This trouble can be overcome by using mixtures of Integral Liquid Metalcrete as tempering water for making the topping aggregate.

ELECT DOWNS TO NEGOTIATE WITH STANFORD

President Of Baseball Club Now In America Will Urge Collegians To Come Here

MEETING NEXT MONTH

Local Team Must Start Early As Far Eastern Championships Will Bring Nines

Dr. N. L. Downs, president of the Shanghai Amateur Baseball Club, has been empowered by the organisation to enter into negotiations with the baseball teams of Leland Stanford and University of California relative to their proposed trip to the Far East this Summer.

Secretary Johnny Potter of the Baseball Club has written to Graduate Manager Thomas A. Gallagher suggesting that the letter get in touch with Dr. Downs and it is expected that by the time the president of the local organisation starts back to Shanghai—he leaves Vancouver on March 10—that the preliminary arrangements for the trip will have been completed. The idea is for the collegians to arrive in Shannghai in August.

In the meantime Secretary Potter has written to Tientsin, Peking and Hankow and is communicating with Japanese here in order to get things lined up properly and early. Potter is also getting information regarding possibilities of the American college teams playing in Dairen.

MEETING NEXT MONTH

The annual meeting of the Baseball Club is to be held next month when plans for the season and a report on last Summer's activities will be made.

At the meeting it is expected that John Potter will resign as secretary and that the members will refuse to accept said resignation. The secretary who hopes to retire will plead "pressure of other matters which need attention."

At the meeting there will be plenty to discuss with California and Stanford planning to come out and the possibility of bringing teams from Tientsin and Manila to meet the American collegians.

MANILA TEAM COULD COME

Stanford and California will probably not go to Manila because the rainy season will be in progress and the trip to the Philippines will involve financial risks. Proper representations to the United States Army in the Philippines would probably secure an American or Philipino team for the series here. The 15th Infantry of Tientsin is playing in Manila now and it might be a good idea to shoot a line to Lieutenant Gibbons. The Empress takes a fast mail to Manila on Sunday.

Elwood S. Brown, who has charge of all physical work outside of the United States for the Y.M.C.A. is going to Manila on the Empress and could be depended upon to do everything he could to get an Army team here for a series this Summer.

TEAM MUST START EARLY

The Shanghai baseball team must get away to an early start this season as the Far Eastern championships will be held at Shanghai probably in May and the Philippines and Japan will send baseball teams to play against the nine which will represent China. The Filipinos will have a great little ball club, too, and would welcome a chance at the local civilians.

Spain To Encourage Play For All Program

Alicante, Spain, November 29.—Fostering of athletic sports should be taken up by the State in Spain, according to Marcelo Agudo, one of the leading supporters of athletics here. He has drawn up a program, which he suggests should be adopted. In it he proposes that schoolmasters should encourage sports by giving facilities to the pupils to practice and to form clubs, also by establishing prizes through donations or subsidies. Athletic tracks and fields laid out near the schools are suggested with fixed days and hours for the sports and games. In order to attract novices, who generally are prevented by fear of ridicule from entering sports where practised athletes are engaged, he thinks the masters should have a regular system of novices' events and also should arrange for consolation prizes to be awarded for the best performances. In order to bring up the general average of excellence he believes team work should be encouraged rather than individual pre-eminence.

BOBBY McLEAN ISSUES DEFI TO WORLD'S CHAMP

American Skater Would Race Oscar Mathiesen, Swedish Amateur, At Stockholm

Bobby McLean, the American champion skater, having challenged Oscar Mathiesen the world's champion, to a series of races, has asked the Swedish Skating Association to authorise and make arrangements for the match to be held at Stockholm but the Association at a meeting recently unanimously refused to do this and also refused to forward McLean's challenge to the Swedish amateur champion, Eric Blomgren, on the grounds that the Association was working purely on amateur lines.

INTERPORT RUGBY

The Shanghai Rugby team will leave for Hankow for the interport match on Friday, Feb. 4. The game will probably be staged in Hankow on February 9.

It is understood that Tientsin is unable to participate in the interport competition and will not send a team to Hankow.

New York Worried About Twenty Best Scrappers; Freddy Welch Picks List

BY DAMON RUNYAN

Tad, greatest of the cartoonists and one of the foremost fistic authorities in the country, was requested to submit to us a list of his twenty best heavyweights.

"All right," said Tad, promptly, "I'll give it to you in five minutes. That's the easiest question anybody has given me in a long time."

He seized a bit of yellow note paper, hastily scribbled three names, and paused. Then he tore up the paper and began on another sheet. At midnight he was still struggling, and just before press time he completed his task.

We find that he has bracketed in No. 1 position Jack Dempsey and Jack Johnson.

"I couldn't split 'em out," he explained. "Either Dempsey or Johnson is the best heavyweight that ever lived, but I can't just decide."

Tad's list follows:

1, Dempsey-Johnson; 2, Jackson; 3, Jeffries; 4, Corbett; 5, Sullivan; 6, Langford; 7, Fitzsimmons; 8, McCoy; 9, Wills; 10, Choynski; 11, Joe Goddard; 12, Peter Maher; 13, Jess Willard; 14, Charley Mitchell; 15, Fulton; 16, Carpentier; 17, Brennan; 18, Moran; 19, Luther McCarthy; 20, Denver Ed Martin.

Benjamin Weinberg, of No. 33 Market Street, New York, who enclosed a dollar for the Christmas fund with his list, gives Gus Ruhlin a higher rating than the Akron Giant has yet received from any one. Weinberg places him ninth.

Here is his list in full:

1, Dempsey; 2, Fitzsimmons; 3, Sullivan; 4, Jackson; 5, Jeffries; 6, Corbett; 7, Jack Johnson; 8, Peter Maher; 9, Ruhlin; 10, Sam Langford; 11, Joe Choynski; 12, Luther McCarthy; 13, Charley Mitchell; 14, Jess Willard; 15, Kid McCoy; 16, Sam McVey; 17, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien; 18, Joe Jeannette; 19, Tommy Burns; 20, Tom Sharkey.

Weinbery also sends in a list of present day heavyweights, rating them as they stand in his opinion as follows: Dempsey, Wills, McVey, Carpentier, Brennan, Fulton, Norfolk, Martin, Roper, Tunney, Greb, Clay Turner, Moran, Tate, Levinsky, Weinert, Shannon, Cowler, Bartley Madden and Ray Smith.

THIS CHAP INCLUDES WALCOTT IN LIST

From R. Somers, of Dunellen, N. J., comes a list which includes a couple of names new to the selections so far printed. He includes Joe Walcott, who was not a heavyweight, although he whipped heavyweights, and Tommy West.

Here is Somers' list:

1, Fitzsimmons; 2, Corbett; 3, Jeffries; 4, Sullivan; 5, Peter Jackson; 6, Choynski; 7, Jack Dempsey; 8, Johnson; 9, Mitchell; 10, Ruhlin; 11, Sharkey; 12, Willard; 13, Walcott; 14, McCoy; 15, Langford; 16, Maher; 17, West; 18, Wills; 19, Fulton; 20, Dillon.

"Ol' Timer," of No. 390 West Eighty-fifth Street, presents a list rating Bill Brennan 20th. "If you should like to know my reason for putting Brennan last on the list—well, just witness how soundly he sleeps after he meets a fighter in his prime," says "Ol' Timer."

Here's the list:

1, Jeffries; 2, Sullivan; 3 Fitsimmons; 4, Corbett; 5, Johnson; 6, Dempsey; 7, Jackson; 8, Choynski; 9, Peter Maher; 10, Sharkey; 11, Ruhlin; 12, Jeannette; 13, Wills; 14, Jess Willard; 15, Georges Carpentier; 16, McCoy; 17, Mitchell; 18, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien; 19, Tommy Burns; 20, Bill Prennan.

Sam Landau, of 1365 St. John's Place, Brooklyn, rates his ideas in this order:

1. Jack Dempsey; 2, Jack Johnson; 3, Fitzsimmons; 4, Jackson; 5, Jeffries; 6, Wills; 7, Willard; 8, Corbett; 9, Sullivan; 10, Langford; 11, Sharkey; 12, Carpentier; 13, Fulton; 14, Choynski; 15, Brennan; 16, McCoy; 17, Levinsky; 18, Burns; 19, Maher; 20, Luther McCarthy.

FREDDY WELSH FINDS IT A TOUGH JOB

Freddy Welsh, the former lightweight champion, dropped into the office and he eagerly took pen in hand when asked for his list, but along about the fourth name Fred was floundering and in distress.

Furthermore, he got so far back in the mazes of history that no one could follow him. He put down the name of Jem Mace, among others. When his list was completed, Fred declined to number them, or sort 'em, and this is what we found:

Sullivan, Kilrain, Mace, Mitchell, Sharkey, Corbett, Jeffries, Fitzsimmons, Johnson, McCoy, Maher, Choynski, Jeannette, Ruhlin, Jackson, Slavin, Willard, McCarthy, Carpentier, Dempsey.

Of course, Freddy did not mean to rate Dempsey last. He simply said he couldn't place 'em according to their standing in history, and let it go at that.

ROSES GIVEN TO FIGHTERS IN GERMANY

Floral Tributes Are Awarded To Both Winning And Losing Boxers

SPORT WAR-TIME PRODUCT

German Fans Haven't Yet Figured Out What Is Happening In Ring

Professional prize-fighting and wrestling, introduced into Germany since the war, have won wide popularity and are looked upon as social functions as well as an amusement. Men and women who occupy the highest priced seats appear in formal evening dress, although the management may not prescribe such attire.

The development of the sport has been troubled with some perplexing incidents, for the German public, unaccustomed to "box-fighting," apparently has been unable to decide what its proper attitude should be on such occasions. Cheering, applauding with the hands, or any "rooting" or "ragging" is in high disfavor. At the first sign of approval from supporters of a boxer, sections of the audience rise and hiss the "rooter" down. The patrons insist everything shall be perfectly quiet.

SEND 'EM FLOWERS

When a fighter is crowned with a laurel wreath, or a wreath of roses, or presented with a big bouquet, and proclaimed a victor, it is quite proper to applaud, decorously. Admirers of the winner shower him with bunches of flowers, and the referee makes a speech acclaiming the prowess of the fighter, as well as explaining just how he won the victory. An effort is made to adhere to the American description of blows and maneuvers. Frequently at the end of a round, when a boxer has got in a telling stroke, the referee harangues the audience with a description of the blow and what its effect was intended to be.

A number of fairly well advertised foreign fighters have appeared here, but these "principal" events are always preceded by preliminaries between German boxers. The Germans are not yet masters of the technique of the game but their ability to take punishment is beyond question. In one preliminary bout the correspondent saw a German boxer knock down his opponent twice

FAMOUS TEMPLE TO BE REBUILT

One Of Oldest Landmarks Will Be Repaired By Two Magistrates

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanchang, January 18.—One of Nanchang's oldest and most famous temples, Teng Wang Ko, is being repaired and enlarged by the two magistrates of the Hsien Union and Nanchang district. For years this well known monument has been in a state of collapse and ruin but because of its historical significance the two officials have decided that it shall no longer disgrace their city.

The temple was built by the son of the first emperor of the Tang Dynasty in the year 650 A.D. Later it was repaired by one, Yen Pei-yu, who took the occasion to display the literary talents of his daughter-in-law, Wu Tzu-chang. On the ninth day of the ninth month he held a reception for all the scholars and officials of the city and instructed his daughter-in-law to prepare an essay on the temple.

Among the guests was a 13 year-old boy named Wang Pu who prepared a noble selection with apparently no effort. When his essay was read the guests pronounced it the work of a genius and General Yen thereupon refused to present the treaties of his daughter-in-law.

The immortal essay is now engraved on huge wooden tablets in the temple which is located beside the Water Police Commissioners Yamen outside the Chang Kiang Gate. In pure language of the classics it pays tribute to the palace beside the river and then in even more beautiful words describes a remarkable sunset. The shadows of the passing boats, the songs of the evening birds and the playing of the fishes in the water call to mind a note of sadness. The boy poet reminds his readers that they in turn will pass away but that the beautiful waters of the river will flow on forever.

TALKS OF LEAGUE TO FRENCH SENATE

M. Bourgeois Alludes To Its Early Influence; Proposes World Court

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 26.—M. Leon Bourgeois discussed before the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Senate today the moral and material accomplishment of the League of Nations. As examples he mentioned the League's arbitration between Finland and Sweden and between Poland and Lithuania, and referred to the irresistible weight which had attached to the League's first acts of intervention.

He announced that a bill had been filed for introduction in the Senate, providing for ratification of the proposal to establish an international court of justice, in the formulation of which the United States itself had taken part. This court, he declared, would sooner or later gain, through the support of the nations, the power to enforce its decisions.

It was agreed, M. Bourgeois explained, that recourse to this tribunal would be optional and not obligatory, except in the case of the States which had signed reciprocal agreements to submit their differences to it. The new tribunal, he added, would not supplant that of the Hague, which would still continue to appoint international arbitrators, from among whom the League of Nations would select the judges for its permanent court.

Kiangsu Governor Approves Nieh's Exposition Plan

Order Given To Hold Big Exhibition In Nanking At Early Date

In compliance with the suggestion of Mr. C. C. Nieh, chairman of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce here, Mr. Wang Hu, Civil Governor of Kiangsu, has instructed the industrial bureau of Kiangsu to formulate plans for the holding of an industrial exposition at Nanking at an early date.

Mr. Wang's original plan was to have the exposition, which will include not only products from this province, but also those from other provinces and countries, to be held on March 1, 1921. A report by the chief of the bureau states that more time is necessary for preparation of the exposition and he asked that the date suggested by the Civil Governor be postponed.

The place chosen for the exhibition is the Museum at the old Examination Halls, Nanking.

Captain Bartlett is known among Army, Navy and scientific men as "The Polar Bear," and is a veteran of five Polar expeditions. He arrived here recently to become Port Captain in the Army Transport Service, and is in charge of the transports being completed at Hog Island.

The Military Government desires to put itself in the place of the so-called Peking Government in the Constitutionalist Provinces in taking this step, which is intended to open the eyes of the Peking Government, and to compel it to introduce sensible reforms, with the object of reuniting China.

Roses Are Given To Fighters In Germany

in one round and before the close of the round he himself was twice floored. There were seven knock-downs in five rounds in this contest, and both fighters were badly battered. Through the whole bout the crowd was silent, but applauded the victor who, the referee announced, had won on points. Each fighter was presented with a big bunch of roses.

ENGLISHMAN VS. TURK

The principal event on this occasion was a fight between an English and a Turkish heavyweight. It was announced the fight would go 15 rounds, but after a few rounds the referee made a speech to the fighters from the ring in which he said in his opinion there was too much jumping and dodging around and unless they got down to fighting in earnest he would stop the match. At the end of the fourteenth round the referee held a conference with the promoters and officials of the Professional Box-Fighters' Association, and announced it had been decided to stop the fight. He said it had been agreed it was a frame-up, and that the boxers would be disqualified from fighting again, would be expelled from the association and would not be paid for this fight. The crowd applauded and the boxers left the house.

Later one of the fighters brought action against the boxing association for damages and reinstatement. His counsel, in a brief in which he explained at length the principles of prize-fighting, declared these men were both "defensive" and not offensive fighters, that each had awaited for the other to take the offensive and neither having done so there wasn't much of a fight.

Health, Beauty And The Home

Food for the Old

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,
The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

SHALL grandmother eat the same foods that her little granddaughter of ten eats or that she herself ate when she was actively managing a family at the age of thirty-five? The answer is "no." People in declining years need to vary their diet and select somewhat carefully from the foods served at the general family table.

The reason for this is apparent to good common sense when we stop to consider a moment. From the age of fifty to seventy, let us say, the body occupies a unique position. In the first place, it has reached full development (in contrast to the child, or even the adult of twenty); second, persons of this age usually have "slowed down" in the amount of mental—and particularly in the amount of physical—work they perform.

Another change which comes with age is the slowing down of the bodily processes themselves. Since there is no longer any need to build tissue, since the lungs are generally not so stimulated by active exercise, the blood tends to flow more calmly, and there is not so much internal energy expended to "keep the body going." This is more marked as the person leads a more and more sedentary life.

Now since there are such marked changes in the life of the older person, both within the body and outside of it, it would be natural to expect that these changes should demand a change in the diet. The very first point—that the body is no longer growing—tells us at once that the quantity of protein should be reduced, and particularly that less meat should be eaten. It is most unwise to continue the same allowance of protein foods in the declining years, because since it cannot be used as material to create new tissue it merely serves to fill the body with an excess of waste products, which are often the basis of Bright's disease, heart trouble, rheumatism, etc.

During this period also the assimilative power becomes less. We find we "can't digest" at fifty foods which never gave us a moment's annoyance when we were young. Chief of such foods are all those in the starchy group—cornstarch, rice, potatoes, pastry, tapioca, etc. Of course, some older persons are exceptions, but generally they find that starch is one of the first foods to eat more guardedly. The reason for this is that the secretions of saliva, and the pancreatic juice which act especially on starch cells, are not as active in the adult body as they are in that of the young.

For the same reason—that of lack of activity—the need for sugar is also lessened. Candy and sweet pastries that youth can "gobble up" almost by the pound, are not needed, and generally not relished in quantity by the older adult. But since sugar creates heat and is needed for bodily warmth a small amount must be used. It will be found better to take this in the form of "natural" sugar—that is, in honey—and particularly in fruits both fresh and cooked.

But you may say, if older persons are to eat less meat and less carbodydrate, what are they to eat? The value of fruits and the "watery" vegetables in the diet of the old cannot be emphasized too strongly. The acids that fruits contain are exactly what is needed to counteract the increased tendency to acid formation in the blood which old age brings.

If the alimentary canal can be kept free, if the system can be kept unclogged, then the body stands that much greater chance of enduring a greater number of years. To be a prey to constipation in this period is most dangerous; yet such an evil is all too common. It can be avoided by the free use of green vegetables and fruits, which will stimulate and move along the packed matter in the alimentary canal.

Another food that age must not overlook is milk. This is a combined protein and carbodydrate, but it also has its lactic acid, and it is this acid that is so valuable in combating the development of unfavorable bacteria in the colon and elsewhere. There is more acid, of course, in the fermented milk or in some of the forms of buttermilk.

We have said that the amount of protein should be reduced, especially the protein of meat. This means "red meat," such as beefsteak, chops, roast, etc. "White meat," such as the flesh of chicken or other fowl, is excellent. Fish, too, is one of the best proteins. Another protein which is of the highest worth in youth—eggs—seems to be unsuitable to many persons when they have passed middle life. On the other hand, the proteins in nuts have generally been found most acceptable. The protein of almonds, peanuts and walnuts, either when eaten raw or used in form of a butter, has proved satisfying and easily digested.

The use of soups is particularly advisable at this time of life, and will be found one of the best ways to give both starch and protein. For instance, a cream of corn soup or a strained bean puree would be far more easily digested than a cornstarch pudding or a slice of mutton. Soups are the most easily assimilated of any foods, and when eaten with bread may form either the main supper or lunch dish. Speaking of bread recalls that it has been found excellent to toast all bread used or make a zwieback of it instead of using spongy, soft bread. This it because toasted or rusk bread is more digestible than the usual kinds.

Possibly some very vigorous, elderly person who reads this article will feel that we are trying to make too much of an invalid of the adult past fifty. On the contrary, we want to keep older people from being invalids if we possibly can.

In brief then, the advice to those growing elderly is eat less of all foods; don't use so much protein; be cautious with starches and sugars, cheese, rich fish and eggs; have a dish of apples constantly on the table; use other fruits and green vegetables generously; enjoy soups, toasted breads, milk in its fermented form, nuts and natural sweets. It is hardly necessary to say avoid stimulants, drink plenty of water and eat your food leisurely, for so shall your days be long in the land.

My Advice to Blondes

By Lina Cavalieri
The Most Famous Living Beauty.

THE blonde must remember her type has the most delicate complexion of all. Therefore, she must take excellent care of it. To accentuate her blondness she should strive to keep her hair as light as possible. She should eat such food as will enrich her golden coloring. She must avoid whatever tends to the accumulation of fat.

In short, the blonde must guard against the faded appearance that comes early to most blondes. And, above all, she should dress to emphasize her golden coloring.

While it is true that woman's hair is her crowning glory, a blonde's hair is her aureole, her golden and attractive coloring. Half the time and attention she gives to her toilet should be given to her hair. The blonde's hair, as a rule, has a wonderful golden tint. This tint is the keynote of her beauty and should be enhanced in every possible way.

She may wash her hair as often as she likes with no fear of its fading. The lighter it becomes the better. For her there need be no fear of using carefully those aids in cleansing the hair—ammonia, borax or washing soda. But remember that each of these, if used often, tends to make the hair several shades lighter, and in too large quantities will make the hair brittle.

Because it does not matter how light her hair becomes the blonde may wash her hair oftener than the brunette does. If the hair needs lightening a shampoo in borax water once or twice a week soon accomplishes this result. One tablespoonful of borax in a gallon of water is sufficient.

Or, two shampoos a week in water in which ammonia has been sprinkled soon brings about a decided lightening of the hair. One gallon of water and half a wineglassful of ammonia is a good proportion.

However, two shampoos a week in a gallon of warm water with a heaping tablespoonful of washing soda in it is the speediest agent I know for lightening the hair except peroxide, which some blondes who do not wish to bleach their hair entirely use in small proportions in the shampoo. One tablespoonful of peroxide in a gallon of water is the usual proportion.

Naturally, every one expects light hair to be fluffy. Fluffiness is an accompaniment of goldenness in the hair, and the observer of beauty is always disappointed if he sees fair hair smooth. Smoothness seems to belong rather to dark hair. The blonde should so comb and brush her hair that each hair is separate and distinct from the others. This gives an aureole-like effect to her face and softens her features.

Of course, the blonde knows that fair hair is expected to be fluffy. If it isn't so she can make it that way by drawing it into a loose mass after a shampoo and tying it with a ribbon, letting it dry thus. If the hair is long it can be tied again by another ribbon close to the ends, making it curl or wave still more. Always with a view to keeping and enhancing the golden tints in hair and skin, the blonde should be especially careful to eat such food as will feed the pigment that produces the exquisitely colored wheat-like hair and the fair, apple-blossom skin.

The orange is the best friend of the blonde. It clears the complexion marvelously, but it has besides the property of holding much of the golden shade in solution. A blonde whom I know tried the experiment of eating half a dozen oranges a day and increasing the number to a dozen daily for three months. In that time the change in her coloring was amazing. Her hair, which had been a shade too pale, took on the rich, golden yellow of cornsilk.

When she had quite convinced herself of the fact that oranges are the food of beauty, especially for a blonde, she also decided to eat many carrots. This she did in connection with the oranges for six months. She ate carrots sliced and stewed in cream; she ate them in soup; she ate them mashed and seasoned slightly with salt and pepper. She even ate them baked. At the end of that time her hair had deepened its color three shades and was far more luxuriant in growth and richer. And her complexion was fresher, fairer and harmonized more perfectly with the lovely golden lights in her hair.

Secrets of Beauty

CAN the deep lines around my mouth be due to smiling and laughing so often?—M. L. F.

Undoubtedly. But why worry about it? Laughter lines are vastly more becoming to a youthful face than otherwise. They are also extremely difficult to remove except by a faithful, daily massage treatment. Here is an astringent preparation which you will find a very useful aid if you insist upon attempting their removal:

Almond milk	1½ ounces
Rose water	6 ounces
Alum	60 grains

KINDLY advise me how to reduce my weight, as I am altogether too stout across the hips.—M. V. R.

It is essential that you adopt a rather rigid system of diet and exercise if you are to accomplish any appreciable flesh reduction, but extremes in both should be avoided except with the sanction of your physician. Try bending forward until you can rest the palms of your hands upon the floor back of the heels. Then lift your body and bend backward in the opposite direction until you are able to make the fingertips touch the floor. Practice this very gently at first because a more violent attempt is likely to prove too severe a strain.

I HAVE used cold cream since I was thirteen and although I am now seventeen all this care does not seem to soften my skin or help it in any way.—F. L. M.

There is such a great difference in constitutions and in the hereditary factors governing them that it is sometimes very difficult for one girl to secure a good complexion while another seems to have it without any effort on her part. Often several generations of incorrect living are paid for by such blemishes in the poor victim's skin. The most careful and persistent adherence to certain hygienic rules is the only antidote for this ancestral violation of health laws. Scrupulous cleanliness; enough daily exercise to induce perspiration and plenty of fresh air, both indoors and out, will do more to secure a good complexion than anything else I could advise.

WILL you please suggest something for an exceptionally dry skin?—M. P.

When the skin is inclined to excessive dryness under perfectly normal conditions a remedy like the one given below should be applied every night before retiring. It contains a great deal of oil and will help tone up the skin once more to its proper condition:

Lanolin	4 ounces
Cocoa butter	4 ounces
Glycerine	4 ounces
Elderflower water	3 ounces
Rose water	5 ounces

HOW can I reduce my bust and waist-line? I am twenty-two and weigh 146 pounds, but am not a very big eater.—M. S.S.

In the morning after a tepid or hot bath take a handful of sea-salt and rub it upon the portion of the body you want to reduce. Immediately after applying this use a cold spray or else sponge off the skin with water as cold as you can bear it. A good exercise to reduce the waist-line is to insert your toes beneath the foot-board of the bed, on a level with your body, and then lift yourself wholly by the waist-muscles to a sitting position. Do this three or four times every morning and a perceptibly rapid reduction of the waist-line will soon be apparent.

I HAVE very dark and conspicuous freckles on my face. I wish you would tell me what I should do to get rid of them.—J. D.

I am glad you realize that now is the time to get those freckles off, because the longer they stay on the more difficult they are to remove. Of course, you know that one of the best bleaches for this purpose is the lemon, which is extremely effective in removing light freckles and tan. The best way to apply it is to cut the lemon in half and then rub one half thoroughly over the affected portion of the skin several times daily, leaving it to dry in. Citric acid is the basis for many skin bleaches. So I would recommend the following as a most excellent freckle and tan removing preparation:

Citrine ointment	1 dram
Oil of almonds	1 dram
Spermaceti ointment	6 drams
Oil of rose geranium	6 drops

The Truth About Laundry Soaps

LAUNDRY soap, according to Lydia Ray Balderston, instructor in laundering at Teachers' College, Columbia University, may be either yellow or white, the yellow color generally being due to the presence of rosin. A little of this helps in producing suds, but an excess, such as is likely to be found in very dark brown soaps, is objectionable because it serves no useful purpose in laundering and because it forms a sticky scum which may adhere to the clothes. Much rosin can be easily detected, for it gives the soap a pungent odor and a sticky quality.

Soaps may be classed as strong, medium and mild. Strong soaps contain an excess of soda or lye, and while they will not harm white cottons and linens they cannot be used safely with silk, wool or colored fabrics.

Any one can tell whether soap contains an excess of soda or lye by the following simple tests: Such soap causes the hands to shrivel into the condition so long known as washerwoman's hands and has a biting taste when touched with the end of the tongue.

Medium soaps usually contain some free soda or lye. A mild soap contains no free soda nor free lye and is the best for general purposes if only one kind is used in the laundry. If a stronger effect is desired washing soda may be added to the water instead of using a stronger soap, which contains it in unknown amount.

If soda is used clothes must not be boiled with it, for heat intensifies its action. Even a dilute solution may shrink and discolor wool, may fade colored fabrics and will yellow white silk.

If the supply of hot water is limited naphtha soap may be used to good advantage with cold or lukewarm water. Naphtha helps loosen the dirt in the clothes, but is too volatile to be effective with hot water.

It is not economy to use a poorly-made soap which may contain free grease or an excess of lye or both. This is sometimes the case with home-made soaps, but need not be so if good directions (for example, those that come with the commercial lye in tin cans) are carefully followed. Making soap at home may not be good economy where the fat can be sold for use in a soap factory, but it is a thrifty practice where the fat would otherwise be thrown away.

Boiler or chip soap is more economical than cake soap for use in the washing machine, but does not take the place of cake soap when clothes are washed on a board. Almost all soap manufacturers make a chip soap which may be bought by the pound at the grocer's or obtained by parcel post or by freight from the factory.

Soap chips can be made at home by shaving up a cake of soap or putting it through a food chopper. One pound of chips dissolved in five gallons of water makes a good strong soap jelly, which should be added to the water in the boiler or washing machine in sufficient amounts to make good suds.

A more economical solution to be used for white cottons and linens may be made from one-half pound of soap chips and one-fourth pound of soda to five gallons of water; this must not be used for wool, silk and colored fabrics. Soap solution will keep indefinitely if covered to prevent evaporation.

Dye soaps are supposed to clean and dye at the same time. It is safer, however, before using the dye soap, to wash the garment clean with white soap and water. The best results come from dipping the garment in a generous quantity of water to which the tint has been added.

The color is always fainter after drying than while the garment is wet. The tinting is usually not permanent and the process should be repeated with each laundering.

Household Helps

To Measure Molasses.

MOLASSES will run from the measuring cup without sticking if the cup is first dipped full of flour and then emptied.

Making Brooms Last Longer.

A BROOM will keep its shape and wear much longer if it is dipped in hot soapy water once or twice a week.

Cleaning Wall Paper.

WALL PAPER, if not too badly soiled, may be cleaned by rubbing with cotton-batting, at first lightly and then with greater pressure.

Bleaching Woodwork.

TO bleach unfinished woodwork which has become darkened, add one teaspoon of oxalic acid to a cup of hot water and apply with a brush.

Tested Candy Recipes

By Mary Lee Swann,
The Well-Known Writer and Lecturer on Cooking.

Popcorn Balls.

BOIL 1 cup molasses with ½ cup sugar until it forms a hard ball when tried in cold water. Add ¼ teaspoon soda. Pour over 8 quarts of popcorn, mix well and shape into large balls.

Cocoanut Cream Caramels.

DISSOLVE 2 cups sugar and 2 tablespoons corn syrup in 1 cup of rich milk or cream and bring to boiling point. Boil until the mixture reaches the hard ball stage, about 252 degrees Fahrenheit. Remove from fire, add grated cocoanut, squeezed dry, and a few drops of vanilla. Pour into buttered pans. Mark into squares.

Quick Peppermint Drops.

MOISTEN 1 cup granulated sugar with boiling water and boil about five minutes. Remove from fire and add 4 drops of oil of peppermint and beat until the mixture becomes white. Add the desired coloring and drop quickly from tip of spoon on waxed paper. If mixture granulates add a few drops of boiling water and bring to boiling point. With tips of fingers dipped in ice water wash down any crystals of sugar that may form on the sides of the saucepan.

Fondant.

TO make fondant successfully experience in cooking sugar or syrup is usually necessary. The sugar used in making fondant (if not scorched or burned) may be used over and over again for the same purpose if the first attempts are not satisfactory. Put 5 cups granulated sugar, 1½ cups boiling water and ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar in a large saucepan. Stir until sugar dissolves and then heat gradually to boiling point. Cook without stirring until syrup will form a soft ball when tried in cold water, about 238 degrees Fahrenheit. Remove grains of sugar that form on sides of pan with fingers which have been first dipped in ice cold water. Repeat until all grains are removed. Pour gently on a large, slightly oiled slab or platter. Let cool until edges become hard. Scrape with wooden spatula to one end of platter. Then work with spatula until white and creamy. When it begins to lump knead with hands until smooth. Put into a bowl or earthen jar, cover closely with oiled paper and set aside for 24 hours or longer.

Rose Mints.

MELT a little of the fondant which has stood at least 24 hours. Fondant should always be melted over hot water. If it seems too hard add a few drops of boiling water. Add a few drops of rose extract and tint with rose color paste. Drop from the tip of a spoon upon oiled paper.

Chocolate Mints.

MELT fondant over hot water, flavor with a few drops of oil of peppermint and color as desired. Then drop from tip of spoon on oiled paper. When cold and hard dip them into fondant, to which melted chocolate and a little vanilla have been added. Carefully remove from chocolate fondant and place them on oiled paper.

Cherry and Nut Divinity Fudge

MELT 2 squares chocolate over hot water, add 2 cups sugar, 1 tablespoon corn syrup and ⅔ cup water. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Boil without stirring until the soft ball stage is reached, about 241 degrees Fahrenheit. Remove from fire. Beat 2 egg whites until stiff and pour the hot candy over them very slowly, beating constantly. Add ½ tablespoon almond extract, ¾ cup sliced almonds and ¾ cup sliced candied cherries. Beat until creamy and pour into a shallow greased pan. Mark into squares.

Chocolate Nut Fudge.

MIX 2 cups sugar with ⅔ cup milk, 1½ squares grated chocolate melted over hot water, ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar and ½ teaspoon salt. Bring to boil and boil gently to the soft ball stage, about 238 degrees Fahrenheit on the sugar thermometer. Remove from fire, cool in a pan of cold water, and after adding 1 cup chopped walnuts or pecans, 1 tablespoon butter and 1 teaspoon vanilla beat until creamy. Spread in a buttered pan, and when candy will hold its shape mark into squares. To make the marshmallow fudge add 1 cup chopped marshmallows after taking candy from fire. Peanut butter fudge may be made by adding 2 tablespoons peanut butter to the candy. Cherry cocoanut fudge may be made by adding ¾ cup grated cocoanut, squeezed dry, and ¼ cup or more of chopped candied cherries. Candied fruit of any kind may be substituted for the cherries.

Shanghai Loan And Investment Company

The annual general meeting of the Shanghai Loan and Investment Company took place yesterday at the office of its agents, George McBain. Mr. R. S. F. Brenan, chairman of the board of directors, presided and was supported by Messrs. W. S. Jackson, A. W. Burkill and A. J. Welch, and Major W. R. McBain and others.

The total number of shares represented was 21,918. The chairman having read the notice of the meeting said:

"The report and accounts having been in your hands for some time, I will, with your permission, take them as read.

"The result of the year's working shows a surplus on profit and loss account of Tls. 157,644.74, and this, your directors recommend, should be dealt with as follows: placing to a general reserve Tls. 75,000, and carrying forward the balance of Tls. 82,644.74 and they trust that you will approve of this manner of dealing with this surplus.

"If it were for not the general financial depression all round, I think that we might have looked upon the surplus of profit and loss account as quite satisfactory. The details of the returns from investments and debentures you will see in the report.

"Although this company has been in existence only for a very short time, I should like to review briefly the causes which led to its formation. You will remember that the annual general meeting of the Langkat Company three years ago, resolutions were brought forward by the directors with a view to winding up the loan and investment account of that company and returning to the shareholders Tls. 5, or perhaps more, for the proceeds of such winding up, but that an amendment was brought forward by Mr. Burkill and Mr. Davidson, and was carried without dissension to form a company to carry on business as a loan and investment company.

SUPPORTED BY DIRECTORS

"At that meeting the opinion was expressed that it seemed to be a very inopportune time to think of liquidating any investments and that with the very low levels of value then ruling, and with little chance of an improvement for some time it was not too much to hope that we ought in time to see a very material rise in the investments to be taken over. This feeling was shared by all, and hence the formation of the company. This amendment through the proposal brought forward by the directors of the Langkat Company had, I may say, their full support.

"Unfortunately this material rise in the values of many of the shares taken over has not yet come, and therefore we have had no opportunity of realising them, and using the money fully as it was hoped to do, for making loans and similar business.

"Since the company started business in January 1919 there have been some changes in the shares invested in, and on the first year's working of the company a dividend of Tls. 0.30 per share was paid and Tls. 50,000 was placed to a reserve against investment fluctuations. The second year's working has shown a slightly increased profit, but owing to the general financial position in Shanghai, and the difficult times through which we are passing, your directors have thought it wise to place to a general reserve Tls. 75,000 and carry forward the balance.

DIFFERENCE GREATER

"Last year the approximate market value of the investments and debentures and the cost at which they were taken into the balance sheet showed an adverse difference of about Tls. 100,000. This year the difference is still greater and is now approximately Tls. 130,000 below cost.

"With regard to the auditors' remark that our loans against shares are not covered to the extent that would in normal times would be considered prudent, I wish it to make it quite plain that every care is being taken to further your interests, and your directors are of opinion that in course of time, the company will be able to recover the amounts loaned.

"From what I have said you will see that the loss on paper amounts to roughly Tls. 300,000 against which we shall have reserves amounting to Tls. 125,000 and a carry forward of rather moret han Tls. 80,000, but we trust that we shall not have to use any of this money to make up the difference.

"I have been told that there are some shareholders who think it would be better if we had written our investments down and shown a loss in the balance sheet, but if we had done that we should have had to tire them up again, and possibly to show a large profit later on. Your directors feel that the course they have adopted is the preferable one. This, I believe, is also the opinion of the auditors.

EXPECT RECOVERY

"Although I think you will agree with me that for obvious reasons it is not wise for us to make public just what our investments are I think in order to give you a fair idea of what likelihood there is of a reasonable recovery in the value of them, there can be no harm in telling you that of the Tls. 1,280,000 in investments and debentures Tls. 570,000 is in rubber, and the greater part of this is in companies whose position is such that they will undoubtedly be able to pull through the present very difficult times.

"Of the Tls. 600,000 in loans, Tls. 95,000 is represented by rubber, and Tls. 460,000 by cotton shares, and Tls. 40,000 by other shares.

"As for the future it is very difficult to say anything. We, shall of course, expect to earn something in the way of dividends, and we shall hope to realise some of our holdings to advantage during the year but until we can do so, there will not be much opportunity of engaging in fresh business as we do not want to increase our borrowings for this purpose.

"If there are any remarks you would care to make or any questions you would like to ask I will answer them to the best of my ability."

No questions being asked, resolutions were then passed to adopt the report and accounts of the directors, to re-elect Messrs. W. S. Jackson and A. W. Burkill directors of the board and to re-appoint Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews auditors of the company.

Attempt Made On Life Of Armenian Peace Delegate

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 26.—The President of the Armenian delegation to the Peace Conference owes his life today to his presence of mind. An Armenian named Zacharies entered the President's private office, whipped out a revolver and aimed at the President. The latter's action was as swift as it was cool. He seized the man's wrist, just as the trigger clicked, and the fatal bullet missed its mark. The would-be assassin was promptly arrested.

Navy Secures £1,297,200 Loan From Handley-Page

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, January 23.—The Chen Pao reports that the Ministry of the Navy has negotiated a seaplane loan with the British Handley-Page Company, and that an advance of £400,000, was made to the Ministry on the 11th instant. The agreement provides for the purchase of 105 seaplanes from the company, which are estimated at a total amount of £897,200, transportation charges and the expenses of installing a plant included. This sum added to the advance of £400,000, makes up a total of £1,297,200, and constitutes the amount of the loan. The Chinese Government will undertake to realise the amount in Chinese currency and to issue treasury bonds to the amount of $4,000,000, thereon. These bonds will be deposited with the company and sold at a discount of eight percent below their face value. The annual interest is six percent and the loan is repayable in five years. In the first year, only interest is to be paid, while one fourth of the principal will be paid during the next four years. The Company engages itself to deliver the seaplanes in six months from the signature of the agreement; that is, before or on June 31. The agreement further calls for the establishment of four aerodromes at Taku, Chihli, Chefoo, Shantung, Kiangying, Kiangsu and Makiang, Fukien by the company.

I OFFER YOU THE BEST:
There are loyal hearts, there are spirits brave, there are souls that are pure and true; then give to the world the best you have, and the best will come back to you.
Give love, and love to your life will flow, a strength in your utmost need; have faith, and a score of hearts will show their faith in your word and deed.
Give truth, and your gift will be paid in kind, and honor will honor meet; and a smile that is sweet will surely find a smile that is just as sweet.
Give sorrow and pity to those who mourn, you will gather in flowers again, the scattered seeds of your thought outborne, though the sowing seemed but vain.
For life is the mirror of king and slave; 'tis just what we are and do; then give to the world the best you have, and the best will come back to you.

NOTICE

Butcheries both in the International and French Settlements hereby jointly notify the Public:

Shanghai Butchers usually purchase sheep and calves from the interior of China. In consequence of the recent famine and the high cost of food prices, labour and farm hands in the interior, the raising of cattle and sheep has become difficult, and therefore the supply of meat has decreased in comparision with that of previous years. The price of meat has risen to a much higher price above normal, say, an increase of about 5 to 6 cents per pound.

In spite of the difficulty and high cost of transportation of animals from the interior, and the high price of rice and other foods, Shanghai Butchers sell meat to their customers as cheaply as possible, with the intention of retaining their good connection with customers.

A meeting has been held by all Shanghai Butchers and a resolution passed that an increase or certain prices per pound shall be made on cash sales as well as contracted transactions.

We wish the public to understand that the increase in prices was decided upon only after the most careful consideration and only for necessity's sake.

The following Butchers in the International Settlement will come under the above resolution:

Yue-Shing, The Oxford Butchery, Cosmopolitan, Wei-Zee, Zang-Zeong, Teh-Fong, Yung-Foong, The Hanbury, The Shanghai Butchers, Yun-Kee, Foh-Loong, Zung-Zoong, Ziang-Kee, San-Mow, Yuen-Cheong, Woo-Mei, Yue-Woo, Yao-Tsing-Kee, Zee-Ah-De, Tsen-Kee, Hop-Shing, Dong-Hing, Yah-Foong, North-Hong-Kee, Tsen-Tai, Yung-Tai-Foh, The Asia, San-Tai, and Shing-Mow.

The following Butchers in the French Settlement will come under the above resolution:

Zung-Shing-Kun-Kee, Yung-Sin, Sau-Woo, Zung-Shing-Hop Kee, Yung-Shing-Fau, Hong-Kee, and Dong-Hing.

Freight Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their freight market report of yesterday.

The situation in Outward Freight markets is as follows:

To United Kingdom and Continent.—This market is practically stagnant and, as far as can see at present, shows no signs of any improvement for some time to come.

To United States via Pacific and via Panama and Suez.—With the exception of a little silk moving across the Pacific there is no general cargo worth speaking about moving on any of these routes and the only item of interest to Shippers is the reduction in ocean rates via Pacific on various commodities.

Coastwise.—With China New Year so close at hand business is more or less at a standstill for the time being but we hope to see some improvement set in after the holidays.

Coal Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their coal market report of yesterday.

Japan Coal.—Owing to the near approach of China New Year—which takes place on February 8—Native dealers are not inclined to enter into any new business dealings and consequently there has been nothing done during the past two weeks but we hope to see the market revive after the holidays;—In Japan the coal-market is also dull and prices are easier, especially for the commoner kinds.

Fushun Coal.—No change.

Kaiping Coal.—There is no change to report under this heading.

Fuchung Coal.—These mines, situated in the Province of Honan, produce a high grade of anthracite coal which has been well known for a number of years up and down the Yangtsze River particularly at Hankow where the Fu Chung Corporation has extensive depots a few miles below Hankow with good loading facilities on the water-front and where it maintains large stocks of coal for export.

We understand the mines produce about 7,000 tons of coal a day and the Company's sales latterly have amounted to about a million and a quarter tons a year.

With the recently acquired improved transportation facilities in the way of additional rolling stock for the railways the Corporation intends to apportion greater supplies for Shanghai than heretofore and they specially recommend a grade of anthracite nut coal called "Boiler Coal" which has proved highly satisfactory for steamers with forced draught, it is smokeless, burns with an intense heat and is very economical in consumption.

Stocks are kept at the wharves and at the Markham Road Railway Depot.

WEATHER

The depression is apparently developing in the Yangtsze Valley. Variable and mild weather, northeast to southeast breezes to the north of Formosa. Moderate or light monsoon in the south.

The German Wireless

READERS of Shanghai newspapers are already familiar with the German messages picked up here from the wireless station at Nauen, and issued by Reuter "with all due reserve." Reuter describes the messages as German propaganda, and with this general classification we have no quarrel. It is as accurate as a general classification may be. This service is being used by the Germans for political effect to a greater extent than Reuter is used for political effect by Great Britain.

And the same holds true as to the American and French wireless. In other words the British, French and American services are primarily news services. Whatever happens is told but it is told from the British or French or American viewpoint. In the case of the German service there is more political coloring, and once the general public comes to understand this fact, the German wireless will be as valuable to it as any other service.

In any event, the American will place the highest value on the American service, the Briton on the British service, the Frenchman on the French service and the German on the German service. There is no way to get around this because there is no way of changing human nature. If there was a Patagonian wireless and we had some Patagonian residents, they would regard that particular wireless as best of all. The special point we wish to make is that this competition is not harmful, especially here, because it results in our getting two three, even five times more news than we used to get.

The New York Times, however, has been investigating the German wireless, and it has dug up some very interesting facts regarding it and the plans for its future.

Among the lessons of the great war, says a writer in The Times, was the one that Germany could not depend on cables. What was the answer? It was simple. Wireless! So today Germany is developing a world—wide radio system that will render her free from the domination of British and other foreign cables, and will allow her to control her commerce unhampered.

Word has reached Government officials in Washington, according to this writer, that Germany is making great strides in her plans in this direction. Germany had twenty-seven wireless stations in service on June 1, 1919; seven months later she had fifty-five in operation and many more in preparation. From March, 1919, to the same month a year later, the number of words sent had increased from 136,103 to 1,778,344.

Naturally Germany looks to the United States as one of her greatest world markets. Therefore she is seeking the best method of communication with us she can get. As a result, so it is stated, the Radio Corporation of America, a successor to the American Marconi Company, will work between Nauen and Marion, Mass., where a high-power station has been erected.

Communication over this air line will be carried on unofficially until the present state of war is declared repealed. After that regular service will be installed. The German Government Telegraph Administration sanctions the service.

Germany is evidently setting great store upon the Marion-Nauen service, for by means of it she will have direct service to Latin America for the first time since before the war. She will also be able to transmit to and receive from Japan, China and the rest of the Orient by way of this line. At the same time the Germans will stress the advantage to the United States of being able to communicate through Nauen with other Central European countries.

In addition to this line, another is to be started, according to report. This contemplates a station near New York, which will be as powerful as the long-distance Nauen.

When Germany began her drive for foreign trade years ago, she realised that communication outside Europe depended largely on the British cables. She at once developed her own cable system. Two of these cables led to New York via the Azores. Another ran from Germany to her colonies on the west coast of Africa and crossed to Brazil. This was familiarly known as the Brazil-Monrovia-Pernambuco line. In conjunction with the Dutch, Germany also operated cables via the Dutch East Indies, linking eventually to Shanghai and Yap. Thus she short-circuited the British cables in the Pacific and Atlantic.

When the war came and the German cables were cut in both oceans and diverted to other countries, Germany turned at once to Nauen, which is one of the most remarkable and efficient high-power stations in the world. It can be heard eastward as far as Shanghai, and westward as far as Mexico and Brazil. Its propaganda uses were therefore incalculable. Little doubt exists that even under the strict rules of the American Government many amateurs in the United States heard Nauen sending out her propaganda during the war.

The knowledge that Nauen was so useful, that while cables could be cut wireless could not; that other countries, chiefly the British, dominated the present cable network, and that cable material itself is scarce, are all factors that are behind Germany's feverish anxiety to build up her radio system.

Great Britain's example in extending her now famous "All Red" route of imperial communication has, too, undoubtedly stirred the Germans, whose hope of commercial supremacy is as strong as ever. England now operates between Penzance and Halifax, one of the former German cables between Emden and New York, and the British Empire is today stringing special copper wires across Canada, so that soon Melbourne or Auckland may talk to Downing Street with no listeners in.

During the war there was an enormous development in wireless communication. Much of this was done by Germany and a great deal by the American Navy. All the indications are that Germany's means of communication in rebuilding her foreign trade is to be wireless. Details of the extensive plans become known only as some new step makes it necessary.

LET'S ALL BE GOOD

When we all sit down to think over our grievances we find we have a pretty full evening before us. But why not, for a change, sit down and count our blessings?

There is more genuine wisdom in this article, written by Arnold Golsworthy, a well known humorist, than in many a weighty book.

THE CAPITAL "U"

As everybody has noticed of late, the world is in a state of Unrest, with a capital "U." There is much talk of prices and wages, and wages and prices, but nobody seems to get very eloquent on the subject of work.

Instead of doing with all our might that which our hands have found to do, we are encouraged to waste time in protesting that some oher man is getting more than ourselves for the same job. And yet, when Time is no more, we shall surely be judged, not by what we got, but by what we did. So let's all be good, and do it!

When most of us who are now middle-aged began life, the first lesson we learned was that it was only the work that mattered. We were taught that in the great fight with Destiny it is work alone that teachers self-discipline and creates individuality. So much so that there was to us more than a grain of truth in the song of the whimsical hero who so carefully polished up the handle of the big front door that he rose to become ruler of the Queen's Navee.

DON'T SNARL

But today nobody seems in a hurry to eulogise the spirit of endeavor. Yet, though righteousness may exalt a nation, it is the sustained effort that delivers the goods. The old rule that better work brings with it better pay is an eternal verity that is nowadays relegated to the back benches. Let's all be good and give it a place in the orchestra stalls.

Today instead of exalting the finer qualities of our neighbors, we emphasise only their defects. Instead of positive tactics designed to increase the good around us, we adopt the negative policy of eliminating the bad. We snarl at the other man lest he should snarl at us first; and yet we all want to help each other if only we can be given a sporting chance to do it.

Even in the train or omnibus we find ourselves glaring at our fellow-passengers, and wondering what little game they are at to disturb our peace. And all the while they are amiable people trying like ourselves to get as much happiness out of life as they can.

And since most people can be happy only when those about them are happy, it follows that the majority of us sincerely hope for the happiness of our fellowmen. For people of good-will have always been in the majority, else had the world not endured. Therefore, let's all be good!

We want to get away from the fallacious theory that is so popular today that everyone but ourselves is bad. We read in one paper that the working-classes are indifferent to any but their own welfare. Another paper will tell us that the middle-classes are merely parasites on the body politic; while the upper-classes are anathema.

CUT OUT REPRISALS

Yet all classes are ready and willing to do their best to help the poor old world along if they may only be allowed to do it in the old way, which is the right way. But having wrongly postulated that the other fellow is bad, we must needs set out wrongly to reform him, with the result that Chaos is signalling us hopefully from the offing.

There is very much good in the world and in the hearts of men, and it is not easy to see how it can be developed by braining a neighbor with faked statistics, or dynamiting him and his family in their beds. Let's all be good and give the other fellow a chance to work out his salvation on his own lines.

Instead of trying to smooth out economical troubles today in a wholesome spirit of co-operation and compromise, irresponsible people talk quite seriously of a policy of reprisals. It was so in the old days when dissatisfied people met in Trafalgar Square to voice their wrongs, while peppery old gentlemen wrote to the newspapers epitomising the strategy of street fighting.

In our day the proposed reprisals have taken the form of suggesting that oil should be used as a substitute for coal, as a method of hitting the miner back; and there is talk of making London a place of skyscrapers, so that the suburban populace may reside within the City walls, and thus render abortive the threat of the transport worker to suspend his labor.

All such suggestions have only a negative value for good, while in their positive aspect they merely give a concrete shape to hatred and malice and all uncharitableness, from which the Lord deliver us! Let's all be good and try to know each other as we really are.

GET ON WITH IT

No one seems to have made it a first thing to impress upon workers in the great undertakings indispensable to the public, that outside the business of the day's work and the question of the day's pay, such workers have tacitly accepted a position of trust. They are among the trustees of the common weal.

In other walks of life a man who takes a position of trust accepts his responsibility to the full It has hitherto been our good old British way to regard an implied as wel as an actual contract as a matter for religious observance. Hence, Britain. Let's all be good, and do the same!

On the other hand—this being a game with partners in it—once the workers realise that they hold a position of trust as the servants of the public, it is for the public, like every other conscientious employer, to understand the conditions of the labor of their servants, and to see that they are paid a fair and proper wage.

It is common knowledge that when we sit down to think over our grievances we usually have a pretty full evening before us. It is better far that we should be encouraged to sit down and count our blessings, and with proper good-will this is a job we can make quite attractive for others as well as for ourselves. So let's all be good, and get on with it!

The Bronchial Cough

BY BRICE BELDEN, M. D.

Attacks of acute catarrhal bronchitis have been experienced, we suppose, by everybody, and some people are especially prone to them. It may therefore prove useful to outline the main points regarding this common affection.

In many cases the disease follows exposure to cold and wet, particularly when the body is overheated, or the inhalation of irritating gases or dust. Changeable weather favors its occurrence. Sometimes, of course, it is one of the manifestations of a general infection such as measles, whooping-cough, typhoid fever, influenza, etc.

The germs most commonly associated with acute catarrhal bronchitis are the pneumococcus, the micrococcus catarrhalis, the streptococcus, the staphylococcus, and the influenza bacillus.

The chief features are: chilliness and general malaise; a sense of soreness and constriction behind the breastbone, increased by coughing; slight fever (100 to 102 degrees Fahrenheit) with its associated symptoms; and cough, which is at first dry and painful, but later accompanied by more or less abundant expectoration.

In the aged and the very young, and in those much run down, the disease may lead to pneumonia. Ordinarily the outlook is good and the affection runs a comparatively brief course.

Regarding treatment, if the patient be weak or old, he should be confined to his room or even to bed. At the outset, free sweating is useful. It may be secured by means of hot drinks, hot foot-baths, blankets and hot-water bags, and sweet spirits of niter (adult does thirty drops every two hours, in some water).

A mustard plaster applied to the chest is very beneficial. The food should be simple and readily digestible. A laxative should be given.

Young Men Beware! Types Of Girls Not To Marry

In "What to Tell Our Grown-Up Sons About Women," a pamphleteer who calls himself "The Widowed Physician" has made a list of the things he dislikes in girls. He admits that he deals with "objectionable characteristics," but disarms the criticism that he fails to indicate positive virtues by saying that "the nice youth needs no instruction in fully appreciating the qualities of the opposite sex." "The Widowed Physician" sums up his ideas in twelve brief warnings, as follows:

1.—Beware of the girls who manicure their nails to the shape of a claw. I do not know why but beware of them.

2.—Beware of girls who prefer to dress in purple or scarlet colors. There is usually something wrong with their morals.

3.—Beware of girls who are heavily scented.

4.—Beware of the girl who is too-obviously modest and demure. She doth protest too much.

5.—Beware of the girl with low, sloping forehead and dry, straight, coarse, jutelike hair. Any experienced magistrate will tell you that this type of woman frequently summon their husbands for assault and battery.

6.—Beware of the intensely religious girl. She does not mean to be dangerous or passionate, but the fact that she is so devotional indicates that she possesses an unbalanced, passionate temperament.

7.—Beware of the girl who sidles up to you, or lays hands on you; or comes so close to you as to led you readily to lay hands on her.

8.—Specially beware of "married women" of reputed respectability, whom you have formerly had every reason to believe in and respect, when these same women, by acts obvious or guarded, show you that they would not object to your being more intimate with them than you know in your own conscience you ought to be.

9.—Beware of staying with a chum's sisters, unless, of course, you wish to get married.

10.—Beware of the mothers who are anxious as to the future of their daughters.

11.—Beware of the girl who drinks wines freely; She will make a poor wife and a worse mother.

12.—Beware of the girl who dresses in a slovenly, artistic manner.

The "Widowed Physician" recommends two types—the tomboy and the "pert modern self-sufficient learned young woman." He adds: "She would sharpen your wits every time."

A Letter To The Old Lady

BY DAMON RUNYON
(From A. Mugg)

Mrs. A. Mugg, Pasadena, Calif.

Dear Maw—The dame you sublet your apartment to is hollering some because she says the gas stove will not work, but there is not much other news in town, except, of course, I am missing you no little.

But still and all do not let this worry you as the chances are I will make out somehow, and the way I look at it you are entitled to a vacation after all these years, and so am I.

I am glad you are having a swell time and like Pasadena. It is a long time since I am out in that part of the country, and all I remember about it is that it is very hard to get out of if a guy is broke and has to ride the rods, but naturally I will do my best to see that this does not happen to you when you get ready to come home.

The dame you sublet your apartment to says she cannot do any baking on the gas stove, and I tell her that neither can you when we are living in the apartment, although, of course, I do not explain that it is because you do not know how to bake, as the way I look at it, that is your own business.

Furthermore, why anybody wishes to bake on a gas stove in an apartment I do not know, as there is a first-rate bakery right down stairs. But, of course, that is the way dames are.

The weather here is all right so far, but naturally you are better off out there, as there is no telling when it may change in New York. They is very little going on here in the way of amusement except a few shows, but you are just as well off not seeing any of them, as I see by the criticisms in the papers that some of them are not so good.

A bunch of us are at a little party up in the Bronx last night, and several of the boys have a pretty good time. Personally, I do not enjoy it much, what with thinking of you away out there and one thing and another. There are a few dames at the party, but none of them are much for looks, and naturally I do not give any of them a tumble.

One of them who is not a bad looker in spots, but nothing extra at that, is telling me that she does not understand how an ever-loving wife can go so far away as California and leave as nice a husband as me all alone, but the chances are this is just the bull, because that is the way some of these Bronx dames are.

Anyway, I do not give her a tumble, so anything you hear is all wrong. We are going to have another party up there tonight, and all I wish is that you are here to enjoy it, too, although the chances are it will not appeal to you much at that.

There is no neighborhood news to tell you, as I am not able to get up that way since you leave, what with being so busy at this and that. However, I hear business is going on about the same as ever up there, and the chances are everybody misses you the same as me.

By the way, the other day I see this Mrs. Hemingway, who claims to be such a friend of your's, although if I am you I will not take much stock in anything she says, as she is pretty gabby at that.

I am in the dining room of the Claridge, and I see a dame whose face is familiar to me, although I do not remember her name, and I sit down with her a minute to say hello, when along comes this Mrs. Hemingway.

Well, to an outsider it may look as if I am eating with this dame, as I am having a little coffee, and one thing and another at the moment, but of course I am not, although the chances are this is the idea this Mrs. Hemingway gets.

Anyway, she stops and talks to me, and asks me how you are, and wants to know your address, but I do not have it with me, and anyway I will not give it to her if I do, because the way I look at it she is just a pest, and I do not want you to be bothered by pests while you are resting.

The idea is, if you hear anything from her do not give her a tumble, because I get it from certain other friends of your's that she puts in many a knock on you here and there, even if you do think she is all right.

I am still living at a hotel, and my health is all right, except I have a cold. But then, of course, everybody here has colds at this time of year, and you are certainly lucky to be out there where there are no colds. Let me hear from you often, as I certainly miss you no little.

Your ever loving husband,
AMOS.

P. S.—If you hear anything from Mrs. Hemingway it is nothing but a lie. Furthermore, take no stock in what any California guy says about anything, as they are all great bullers out that way

A.

Don't ask for "Emulsion"

You wouldn't go to a grocery and ask simply for some "soap"—you would name the brand of soap you require. There are many preparations called "emulsion," but there is only one SCOTT'S, and this is what you want. At the dispensary, therefore, ask for and insist on having SCOTT'S.

Since 1874 the Fishman Trademark on the Scott package has stood for something more than merely a name. In hospitals and consumptive sanitoria Scott's Emulsion is largely used, and recommended by doctors everywhere in cases of

LITTLE BODIES AND BIG PAINS
TEETHING WITHOUT TEARS THROUGH BABY'S OWN TABLETS

The misery and pain that many babies suffer through teething time is expressed eloquently enough in fits of pitiful crying, fever, refusal of food, and diarrhoea—or perhaps constipation. Baby's Own Tablets—guaranteed to contain no opiates and to be perfectly harmless—act like magic, relieve pain, comfort baby and give rest to the mother, while teething progresses without tears.

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, are safe and pleasant for the youngest infant and the growing child. Besides being so helpful during the teething period they remove constipation allay feverishness, cure colic, indigestion and worms.

Obtainable from chemists, also at 60 cents the vial, post free from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Periods Of Activity And Repose

All living organisms have alternating periods of activity and repose. In man the cycle normally is complete in twenty-four hours; do all members of the animal kingdom manifest a similar twenty-four hour cycle? J. S. Symanski has made some experiments, recorded in a recent issue of the Rivista di Biologia, to determine the question. The animals were placed under conditions as natural as possible in an apparatus which he calls an autograph, arranged to record graphically their movements. As regards periodic activity, it appears that there are two main types. In the first or monophasic type, which includes man, bird, goldfish and fly, a simple twenty-four hour record was obtained with only one well-marked period of activity and one of rest. These animals are awake during the day and sleep at night. The second type showed in twenty-four hours more than one active and one reposeful period; this type includes mouse, dog, rabbit, snail, earthworm and human infant. On the activities of these polyphasic creatures day and night have no marked influence. They orient themselves chiefly by smell and taste in contradistinction to the monophasic "Optical" animals, in which the sense of sight is highly developed. The transition from polyphasic suckling, with its prevailing guidance by touch and taste, to the monophasic optical child is an occurrence of great interest. It appears that the more frequent the periodic change the lighter is the intensity of sleep. Animals of both types exhibit in the twenty-four hour period one or two periods of activity which seem to be indepenent of hunger and other stimuli. The cause of the periodicity must therefore be sought in some deeper internal and as yet undiscovered change in the organism itself, possibly a rhythmical alteration of metabolism.

The Awakening

"What," cried a lecturer, warming to his subject, "will unman a bright youth more, what will destroy his ambition quicker, than the calamity of being cruelly jilted by the object of his worship "Marrying her," piped a little man in the rear of the hall, and the audience tittered.

Music's Power

"Waiter," said a customer in a restaurant where an orchestra was playing. "Yes, sir." "Kindly ask the leader of the orchestra to play something sad and low while I dine. I want to see if it will have a softening influence on this steak."

Persistency

"Miss Somervain, will you be mine?" "Never!" The young man was disappointed, but not wholly discouraged. "Well, will you let me be yours?" he asked.
